Wool Market

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, May 22—Spot wool on this market received little attention during the past week. Quotations on original bag fine territory wool were steady to only slightly lower despite limited demand.

Country packed lots of medium grade fleece wool were easier and at recent prices attracted an occasional buyer. Lower quotations on graded fleece and territory wools offered no incentive to most buyers.

Graded combing Ohio fleeces were quoted 40@41 cents in the grease for fine delaine, 42@43 cents for staple combing lengths half blood, [illegible] cents for three-eighths blood and [illegible] cents quarter blood.

In Ohio History

(From the J. H. Galbraith collection of Ohio histories, written for The Associated Press.)

MAILS IN OLD DAYS

In these days of modern mail service only a few persons can recall when the arrival of the mail was an important event.

A century and a half ago the mails came by stage coach and the stages often were held up by storms, high waters, and break-downs. There was an occasional robbery.

Ohio newspapers of that day had to depend on copies of eastern papers reaching them by mail for outside news. Then the news was always a week or two old.

Some times now all of the mail could be gotten into one bag and the surplus was left for the next stage.

STOCKS SLUMP AS WEEK ENDS

Modest Advance of Last Few Days Recedes Amid Failing Confidence.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 22—The stock market advanced this week but seemed to lose confidence as it drew toward the finish line.

Brokers gave varying explanations for the rise. Some described the sharp jump on Thursday—largest of the week—in terms of short covering which served to stimulate non-professional buying.

Others said demand was touched off by technical conditions. The market, this group said, had been oversold and once selling showed a tendency to dry up, potential buying power was released.

Gains in carloadings and electricity production contrasted with slackening steel and motor output.

Statistics on these activities threw comparatively little light, however, on the continued debate about the possibility of a general recession in business over the coming months.

In the absence of specific evidence, Wall Street was forced to fall back on long range guesses on factors likely to have important bearing on the subject.

Some commentators argued that the current supreme court controversy and the probability of a protracted session of congress might have the effect of obscuring the picture and thus bring some throttling down of the business motor. In particular, it was said, the Wall Street telescope would be focused on wage and hour legislation.

Hesitancy of shares at the close of the week was examined in the light of the decisive victory of the C.I.O. in the vote of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. workers. One view was that it would intensify efforts of the organization to organize industry on a wider scale, indicating a possibility of higher operating costs.

The bond market was generally higher, with low yield obligations in demand.

The average of commodity prices was higher. Agricultural staples were up under leadership of grains and livestock. Industrial products sagged in part under the weight of scrap steel declines.

WHEAT PRICES RISE THEN SLIP AT CLOSE

Reaction Linked to Reports of Crop Saving Rains in Southwestern States.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 22—Wheat price gains of more than a cent a bushel based on strength of foreign markets were followed today by flurried fractional reactions influenced partly by reports of crop saving rains in some important wheat producing areas southwest. The market maintained part of its advance, however.

May corn rose almost 2 cents a bushel to within ¼ of the 12-year peak.

Wheat closed ¼ lower to 1⅛ higher compared with yesterday's finish, May 1.28¾, July 1.21½@⅜, and corn was ¼@3½ higher, July new 1.22⅜@¼. Oats gained ¼-2½.

STOCKS JUMP UP TO 2 POINTS

Steels, Coppers and Motors Lead Upswing But Ease Slightly Near Close.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 22—A rise in steels, coppers and motors frosted the stock market cake today.

Gains ran from fractions to 2 points or so. The opening brought a good uptrend. As the market got its footing the advance became more aggressive but in the closing few minutes of trading various issues [illegible]

In the foreground, brokers said, was the feeling industry at large would feel new near term effects from proposed wage and hour legislation. Another firm peg on which sentiment hung was bright news from the steel industry.

Transactions ran at the rate of about 450,000 shares.

Issues well liked were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Anaconda, American Smelting, Westinghouse, General Electric, New York Central, Goodyear and American Rolling Mill.

Store shares seemed to have little punch. Brokers said the recent [illegible] for this group had abated somewhat.

Bonds were irregular. Wheat and corn were steady.

Demand for steel shares was attributed in brokerage circles in part to better than expected demand for semi-finished steels.

While the appearance of steel orders for third quarter delivery also was seen as a bright augury, enthusiasm on this score was tempered to some extent by those who believed part of this buying had been pulled in by fears shipments might be hampered by further labor disputes.

Irregularity has cropped out lately in the steel industry with a slackening of the production pace in some districts. In the middle west, however, specifications from the automobile and other important consumers are said to have held up stubbornly. Furthermore trade reports indicate the near-term outlook remains bright.

Your Health

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Leukemia.

THERE is almost daily encouragement in the great advances made in the study, prevention and control of disease. Positive knowledge is being gradually accumulated in many fields, especially in the matter of the cause of blood disorders, or "blood dyscrasias," as the doctor calls them. For example, we now know more about "leukemia" than we did.

In former years little was known about this disease. It was accepted as a hopeless and incurable affliction. Although the actual cause of the disturbance is still unknown, cure is possible in certain forms of the disease. That is the best we can do at present. When the cause is discovered further progress will be made in the cure and prevention of leukemia.

Leukemia is a strange disorder. In it is found a marked increase in the number of white cells in the blood. As these cells increase out of proportion to normal, there is an accompanying decrease in the number of red blood cells. This leads to a decrease in the amount of hemoglobin, the red coloring matter which is needed to maintain health. There is likely to follow a severe anemia.

Of all the forms of so-called leukemia, acute leukemia is the most dreaded. It usually occurs in young adults and children. The number of white blood cells increases without any preliminary sign or warning of illness.

In contrast to this type, the chronic form is slow in its progress. The victim complains of general weakness and poor health, and usually suffers from some mild cold or infection. He is weak and unable to bear the slightest exertion or strain.

There is still another form of leukemia, medically known as "chronic lymphatic leukemia." This occurs in older persons, particularly those between the ages of 45 and 60 years. Of course, there is nothing positive about the matter of age, because leukemia may occur even in infancy or early childhood and at any other age.

Some one recently asked me whether it is true that leukemia has increased within recent years. I do not believe the disease is actually on the increase. Modern methods of diagnosis enable the physician to recognize the disorder more easily, so it is more commonly mentioned.

By The Associated Press

MARCH FIELD Calif May 22— The startling observation that the United States air force is so inadequate it could defend only one front should two be attacked was made today by an army expert in analyzing the massive war games on the west coast

If the United States were attacked today on two different fronts we couldn't defend one of them said Major General Frank M Andrews commander of the general headquarters air force

We lack fields and flying machines not to mention a few more inland bases and a good deal of equipment he said

Gen Andrews regarded as unusual and significant that not one of the 2975 men who participated in the games was injured Only four ships were lost Taken within themselves he said the exercises were highly successful We learned a lot

FOUR YOUTHS GIVEN WORKHOUSE TERMS

Charged with Stealing Gasoline from Autos

Four youths arrested by police early Friday morning in connection with the theft of gasoline from parked automobiles were arraigned in municipal court yesterday. Three, Dale Henderson and William Jackson, both 19, and Floyd Rice, 18, pleaded guilty and the fourth, William Gruver, 19, later changed his plea to guilty. All live near Marion.

Each was sentenced to 30 days in the Columbus workhouse and assessed the costs of prosecution. They were charged with automobile accessory theft when a spare tire and wheel found in the car they were driving was identified as stolen from a parked car, Police Chief Mark said. The spare wheel and tire were reported taken from an automobile belonging to John Piley of 241 East Church street.

The quartet was taken into custody on East Church street near the uptown section after a policeman saw their automobile parked without lights in the center of the street. The youths, Police Chief Mark said, admitted having taken gasoline from parked automobiles.

Stopping Traffic Tie-Ups . . . . . . in Business

BACK in the days when the head of the family was a lone producer taking the fruits of his labor for his family and depending on barter and trade to supply their additional needs, confidence and credit were two great unknown factors.

Today most business transactions depend on credit, and the banks, through credit, provide for the swift, easy flow of material of all kinds from producer to user, from market to market.

The manufacturer needs raw material to fill future orders, the coal merchant must order his supply far in advance of the heating season, the farmer needs money to grow and move crops. These are but a few of the many examples of the daily need for credit in which the machinery of the bank helps to keep the wheels of business turning.

Banking credit simplifies what would otherwise be a most complex business transaction. It is easy to imagine the serious tie-ups in business traffic that would occur if the credit machinery of the banks ceased to function on any business day.

Sacrifice

A SERMONETTE

BY REV HAROLD B TWINING

Pastor the Emmanuel Baptist Church

Matt 16 24 If any man would come after me let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me

IN the last few years Memorial day has been an occasion of greater solemnity than ever before Added to the list of those who already fill so l graves are now thousands more By the side of those who died for personal freedom and for the freedom of the nation and for the freedom of a race there now lie those who died for the freedom of all

We honor the dead who died and gave their lives that the whole world might be free from the domination of tyranny and oppression that right and not might would rule and that peace and prosperity not war and bloodshed might bless our land

These speak to us today of sac They came from lives of ease and prosperity to the call of the country They counted it a privilege to give their service and their lives

Jesus one time in answer to the question of his critics as o whether it was right to give tribute to Caesar asked Whose image and superscription is this he asked Caesar s was the reply Render unto Caesar the things which are Caesar s and to God the things which are God s he said

It has been said of one of a a de d ... would dare to d ... the God who ... l ... we owe greater allegiance to our God

The first principle of sacrifice is self denial ... Those who ... Memorial ... knew what ... The ... happiness ... home ... pleasures of ... the joy of family ... some of ... of a ... careers Those who remained at home also learned much of self denial They learned ... They experienced ... wheatless and meatless days and automobile-less Sundays for the sake of country

But what about ones God? What have we denied ourselves for the cause of Christ? How much are we willing to give up to win the war for righteousness How many hours a week do we spend working for our Lord and Master? Have we given to the kingdom of God until it hurts? Surely we should be willing to do as much for God as we do for country

The second principle of sacrifice is suffering Let him take up his cross The cross is the symbol of pain and sorrow and heartbreak Our soldier dead knew what suffering was They experienced gaping wounds lying for hours in open fields tongues parched with thirst bodies wrecked with poison gas and the many other horrors of modern warfare

How much pain have we borne for the sake of Christ? Can we show any scars of the battle against sin? To bear physical pain for ones country is an honor but too many shrink to bear it for their faith and their God Do we suffer mental anguish over sons and daughters and friends who are falling captive to the forces of Satan? We are told that If we suffer with him we shall also reign with him

The third principle of sacrifice is self-surrender Follow me For the sake of our country we will give our wealth our talents our abilities our experiences our possibilities yea even life itself The flaming sword lures the best and the most capable They will follow through fire and hell

How far is our surrender to Christ? His cross is lifted above us It beckons us to follow not to bloodshed and carnage and hate but to the green fields of peace and love and brotherhood If any man would come after Me let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow Me

A ... has been ... ed on a ... to have ... consistency of oil well p es sure s.

Carl's Auto Parts Handles High Grade Rings and Brake Lining

Large Stock Carried By Carl's Auto Parts Store

The above photograph gives a graphic example of the parts and supplies carried by Carl's Auto Parts store on North Main street. The store stocks at all times a full line of parts for automobiles trucks and tractors.

The second largest dredger in the world will be built in Germany to help keep the Whangpoo river at Shanghai open to navigation. A similar machine is having excavated more than 50 000 cubic yards of mud last year.

BOTH PROVEN BY LONG TESTS

Perfect Circle Rings and American Brakeblock Lining Known to Thousands

Although Carl's Auto Parts store at 143 North Main street handles a complete line of parts for automobiles, trucks and tractors, two items in the stock are given special attention because of their high quality and general acceptance by the users of automobiles and trucks.

These two items are Perfect Circle No. 80 piston rings and American Brakeblok brake lining.

Perfect Circle No. 80 rings are new in principle, embodying the independent spring. They were put on the market after more than a million miles of test running in the factory and on the road.

Hard Road Tests

Eight hundred cars running 24 hours a day rolled up hundreds of thousands of miles in the development of the new ring. With the exceptional results obtained from these tests Perfect Circle put the No. 80 to the acid test of hard road work. A fleet of popular make cars all with badly worn and tapered cylinders were equipped with No. 80s and started out on life tests. Each of the cars was subject to the most grueling driving over all kinds of roads and at all speeds.

This exhaustive research has given the automobile industry a new type expansion ring that does not reduce horse power, that does not increase gasoline consumption, that does [illegible] yet does reduce oil consumption to an absolute minimum.

The No. 80 combines the proven basic principles of the famous 85 oil ring and the 20 compression ring with the revolutionary new well expander. The No. 80 expander utilizes a series of independent double-leaf springs [illegible] equally spaced on a flatter band. Each spring operates as an independent unit exerting a surprisingly low pressure against the [illegible] The result is uniform and excellent pressure applied at more points than in any other type ring.

Only One Grade

American Brakeblock brake lining is made only in one grade, sells at one price and is noted for safe stops under all conditions for long wear. To be sure that brakes are in perfect condition at all times officials of Carl's Auto Parts store recommend frequent inspection. This, they say, should be done every 3,000 miles even with new cars.

Perhaps only a slight adjustment will be needed but if the mechanic advises relining, [illegible] the best safety [illegible] the best grade lining available.

To be sure that brakes are in perfect condition the following rules have been formulated:

1—Get in the habit of obtaining regular brake inspection every 3000 miles just as you change oil, watch the mileage between oil changes.

2—Act immediately upon the advice of a competent mechanic who makes the inspection.

3—If a complete relining is necessary specify American Brakeblock.

SERVICE IMPORTANT FEATURE OF STORE

Large Force of Repairmen and Full Stock of Parts Available at Dutt's Store

Service available from the dealer after the purchase of any type of farm equipment is one of the important factors a farmer should consider in buying machinery in the opinion of Fred Dutt of south of Marion proprietor of the Dutt Implement store at 224 North Main street.

Any kind of mechanical equipment requires occasional service and replacement of parts and the speed by which the owner can obtain these needs is of vital importance Mr Dutt declared today in discussing the facilities his firm offers for keeping a farmer's machinery in good running order.

The service department of the Dutt store employs two experienced mechanics at all times and during busy seasons four are employed.

Coupled closely with the benefit to the farmer of a good service department is the stock of repair parts carried by the dealer. The Dutt store carries a full line of replacement parts for all the machinery it handles.

The products of four well known manufacturers of farm machinery are sold by the Dutt store. They are the Allis-Chalmers, the New Idea, the Ohio Cultivator and the Indianapolis Moline. As the holder of the agencies of these companies the store can supply any need of a farmer for power and auxiliary equipment.

The extent to which the Allis-Chalmers all crop harvesters have gained popularity in recent years is revealed by the fact that last year the Dutt store sold more than 30 in Marion county. These machines come with a five foot cutter bar, take their power from the tractor and are operated in the field with the ease of a binder. In addition to these machines the store also has placed four large combines with 12 foot cutterbars which have an independent power unit.

HAT SHOP PUTS NEW LIFE IN OLD "LIDS"

Nu-Way Well Equipped for Work. Also Operates Shoe Repair Dept.

With the straw hat season here the Nu-Way shoe and hat shop at 125 West Center street is in position to handle a large volume of hat cleaning business. Even if the old lid does look the worse for wear a few hours at the Nu-Way will make it just about as good as new.

Modern cleaning equipment enables the shop to turn out first grade work on all types of hats. Prompt service has been one of the aims of the Nu-Way shop ever since it was opened several years ago.

But hat cleaning work is only one of the features of the service provided by the shop. Shoe repair work is another specialty. In this department modern equipment makes possible speedy and careful work. Whether a pair of shoes needs a new pair of heels or new full soles, customers of the Nu-Way shop have found that the work is always satisfactory. This fact, reasonable prices and prompt service have enabled the shop to build up a good trade among Marion residents.

Shoe shining completes the trio of services offered by the shop. [illegible] at a cost of less than a pair of well shined shoes and a few minutes a day at the Nu-Way shop will keep footwear well appearing at all times.

The Nu-Way Shop is operated by two Marion brothers, John and Tom Iova. Both were connected with other Marion shoe and hat shops before opening their own place several years ago.

Four Pictures Booked for Palace Next Week

'Turn Off the Moon' Opens Today and Will Run Through Tuesday

Turn Off the Moon, Her Husband Lies, Romeo and Juliet and A Star Is Born is the array of pictures booked for the [illegible] screen in the coming week.

Turn Off the Moon is headed for a share of the [illegible] ated by It Happened One Night and The Thin Man, both cinematic gems which [illegible] the public with little preliminary [illegible] and became No. 1 hits by virtue of word of mouth build up. It opened today and will remain through Tuesday.

Mrs Fanchon Simon of the stage producing team of Fanchon and Marco became the first woman producer when she made Turn Off the Moon. Her spectacular flair for showmanship was developed originally at a small San Francisco night club where the first Fanchon and Marco revue attracted sufficient comment to play theaters as a unit. That unit grew until she had over 200 presentation house [illegible] at the same time. When she started Turn Off the Moon her only extravagance was [illegible] talent for [illegible].

Ruggles Heads Cast

Charlie Ruggles heads the cast of [illegible] stars assembled for the picture. He is aided by Eleanore Whitney, Johnny Downs, Kenny Baker, Phil Harris and his orchestra, Ben Blue, Marjorie Gateson and the Fanchonettes. In a light vein the story kids astrology as a royal aid to romance and an additional headache to Ruggles' frustrated sweetheart. Music includes three songs by Sam Coslow, [illegible] Southern Hospitality, Turn Off the Moon and Jammin'.

[illegible] will also [illegible] a new March of Time again with three timely episodes together with Britain's Food Defenses, the story of how England is attacking a [illegible] nutrition problem, and Amateur Sleuths, a survey of the public's detective hobby. There will be a [illegible] new screen.

A drama [illegible] that was shattered [illegible] Her Husband Lies [illegible] Gail Patrick and Ricardo Cortez play the leading roles [illegible] to Akim Tamiroff, Tom Brown, Louis Calhern and June Martel in the supporting [illegible]. Cortez [illegible] gambler who is [illegible] a wife [illegible]. She [illegible] to his business and [illegible] he gives his word that he is through with gambling. However complications in which his brother figures forces Cortez to go back on his word to his wife to save the brother.

Thalberg Masterpiece

No need to recommend Romeo and Juliet to those who missed the production last winter. The picture was the crowning masterpiece of Irving Thalberg, late husband of Norma Shearer, who appears in co-starring role with Leslie Howard.

The picture is presented on the screen word for word and line for line as Shakespeare wrote it. Miss Shearer has been hailed as the greatest Juliet of [illegible]. One of the unforgettable supporting roles is the bawdy, roistering Mercutio of John Barrymore, one of the finest pieces of sheer acting that the aging Don Juan has given motion pictures.

MARION BRINGS 'LIBELED LADY'

Powell, Loy, Harlow and Tracy Quartet of Stars in Picture Opening Week

William Powell, Myrna Loy, Jean Harlow and Spencer Tracy head the cast of the excellent comedy Libeled Lady which will return to the Marion screen Sunday and Monday. It's an engaging story of an heiress slandered by a metropolitan newspaper and suing for libel to the tune of a million dollars. The move involves four principals, the heiress, Miss Loy; the paper's managing editor, Tracy; the girl whom he is pledged to marry, Miss Harlow; and a clever gentleman of the Lothario school who has achieved a unique reputation for his unrivaled ability to quash just such suits, Powell. Prominent in the supporting cast are Walter Connolly, Charley Grapewin, Cora Witherspoon and E. E. Clive.

The film version of Peter B. Kyne's Trapped, starring Charles Starrett, will be shown on the same bill. Peggy Stratford is his leading woman. Starrett portrays a straight shooting cowboy who discovers his brother mortally wounded, stabbed by a vicious killer. In a dying gasp the brother mentions the name of the man who attacked him. Starrett, out to get the killer, becomes involved with bank robbers and his heart becomes entangled in the brunet beauty of Miss Stratford.

June Travis, Bob Livingston and Donald Cook are features in Circus Girl which will be shown Tuesday and Wednesday on a bill with the dramatic The Man Who Found Himself. Betty Compson, star of silent films, and Charlie Murray play supporting roles in the circus picture, a romance of rivalry between two trapeze performers, Livingston and Cook, for the affection of Miss Travis, a young woman who wants to fly the rings. The leading roles in The Man Who Found Himself are played by John Beal, Joan Fontaine and Philip Huston.

Our Relation, the Laurel and Hardy comedy in which the stars play twins, will return on Thursday, Friday and Saturday with a western, Roaring Lead, in which Bob Livingston, Ray Corrigan and Max Terhune are starred. One team of Laurel and Hardy is funny and two teams are twice as funny. Betty Healy and Daphne Pollard play roles of their wives and Iris Adrian and Lona Andre are the sirens with whom the twins caper. The twins are roustabout sailors on shore leave and their capers involve the upright and respected [illegible] in a merry round of mix-ups, marital and otherwise.

RUGGLES PUTS ON REAL "BENDER" ACT

Ben Blue and Charlie Ruggles as [illegible] and department store owner are shown above in one of the high comedy moments of Turn Off the Moon which opened at the Palace theater today. It's a drunk scene and Ruggles is said to surpass his most hilarious drunk, the reporter in Gentleman of the Press.

ENGLISH FILM ON STATE BILL

'Everybody Dance' on Double Bill for Two Days Opening on Sunday

Great Britain [illegible] Ernest Truex across the Atlantic and co-starred him in a comedy, Everybody Dance, which to all reports is one of the better English films. The [illegible] will be shown at the State Sunday and Monday on a double bill with a Bob Allen [illegible] western, Rio Grande Ranger.

Cicely Courtneidge shares stellar honors with Truex in Everybody Dance. She was born in Australia while her father, an actor-manager, was touring with his wife. She was only seven when she played her first role, Peaseblossom in Midsummer Night's Dream.

The story should give the co-stars wide scope for their individual comedy talents. Miss Courtneidge is cast as Lady Kate Katherine Levering, who is not only the reigning queen of London's night life but the most sensational personality in town. Hardly a week goes by that Lady Kate doesn't make the headlines in a scandal concocted by the night club press agent. Revenge

A [illegible] administration [illegible] between Democrats [illegible] packing is the [illegible] place in 1938.

All [illegible] of the senators must go before their constituents. A report that President Roosevelt may cut them loose from his coat tails and the [illegible] elect [illegible] to stand on their own feet unless they vote his way on the court bill is disturbing.

It is apparent that Mr. Roosevelt still is the only strong political figure in the country, and congressmen must be realistic about their own chances of survival.

If in their opinion he could punish them effectively for failing to go into the tank on his command they would have good reason to think twice before refusing. Postmaster General Farley talked frankly about that very thing a few days ago. It is no secret.

The possibility hinges on the President's ability to transmute his personal popularity as of last November to support for court packing as of 1938. So far he has not made a good start. The Institute of Public Opinion reports a majority against court packing. Congressmen know from their mail that the plan does not command widespread support.

Another Democratic President, Woodrow Wilson, once went to the country over the heads of congressmen to seek revenge for their opposition to his pet plan. Too late he learned they knew more about public opinion than he did.

Dilemma.

The straw hat now in season presents man, who is essentially a non-conformist in matters of dress, with a challenge.

He wants a straw hat because it's comfortable and because it's different. But he has a straw hat left over from last year.

Reminded by advertisements and the sight of other men wearing straw hats that it's time to think seriously about this matter, he takes last year's job out of the sack and examines it.

He finds it's almost as good as new. If it happens to be a pliant hat it may be a little out of shape, of course. If it's a sailor, the straw probably will be a little discolored.

With any other kind of a hat these things wouldn't matter. There is, in fact, a large and enthusiastic school of hat wearers who insist that to be comfortable they must wear a hat that is conspicuously weatherbeaten.

Yet even members of this group can not bring themselves to wearing a straw hat which is anything but spruce. This must be put down as one of the [illegible] triumphs of the conformist over stubborn males.

It makes straw hat season possible, the only season which makes the slightest difference to men, with the possible exception of the various fishing and hunting seasons.

How About $1,499,999,999.99?

Congress is cocked and primed to spend $1,500,000,000 in work relief next year. This [illegible] is a spike aim for the Democratic steering committee [illegible] the amount the country overwhelmingly believe should be appropriated.

Come, come, who says so? In five minutes on a downtown street or 30 minutes on a country road it would be possible to get estimates ranging from nothing to all the way up to the figure for last year's national income.

Plenty of congressmen who think the brown [illegible] the conditions think [illegible] a billion would be a great plenty. Others insist two billion would be a reasonable minimum. All that a billion and a half really represents is an arbitrary demand.

With no reliable statistics on unemployment one guess is as good as another. The idea behind relief expenditures is to pump out from the treasury a [illegible] of cash which in the opinion of the administration will be sufficient to do what it thinks must be done—and what [illegible] is its own business.

Maybe a billion and a half is as good a figure as any [illegible] no one [illegible] ing demand for [illegible]

One Thing at a Time.

The blue eagle [illegible] dead [illegible] The new deal is being encouraged by certain big business elements [illegible] the policy of driving out [illegible] competitors in business. Bill Almost Identical

The President's plan [illegible] bill almost identical with that [illegible] the New York fair which [illegible] Texas centennial bill [illegible] a case [illegible] the delegation of power [illegible] members [illegible] in a [illegible] was [illegible] a commission [illegible] Under [illegible]

The [illegible] Texas [illegible] cabinet officers and had [illegible] to spend the [illegible] as [illegible] Texas [illegible] $1,000,000 [illegible] $[illegible] [illegible] $1,500,000 an[illegible] $3,[illegible]

As [illegible] the [illegible] Texas case [illegible] delegates were [illegible] appointed by the President and [illegible] cabinet officers were [illegible] on the commission. In the New York case, on the other hand, congress decided [illegible] the spending to a commission [illegible] of seven members only three [illegible] were cabinet officers and four of [illegible] were members of congress.

According to the new deal concept of constitutional [illegible] members of congress are not to be trusted [illegible] sit on commissions which have [illegible] power to spend money. Indeed [illegible] rules nowadays even the congress [illegible] permitted to speak to [illegible] about funds which be expended and [illegible] in the last four years have [illegible] discretionary with the executive [illegible] the government.

The [illegible] general's opinion quoted by the President [illegible] that the methods of spending [illegible] funds stipulated in the [illegible] amount [illegible] constitutional invasion of the [illegible] of the executive.

This is [illegible] other new. It will be recalled that President Wilson [illegible] the first budget [illegible] in 1921 because it contained a clause whereby congress delegated [illegible] powers to the comptroller general who was to be in effect appointed by congress.

Later Became Law

Later on with some slight changes the measure became law under the Harding administration but the point has always been discussed as of doubtful constitutionality. It may be that Mr. Roosevelt is getting ready to have a battle on this very principle when he proposes to do away with the office of comptroller general in the legislation whereby a reorganization of the executive departments of the government is to be effected.

Anyway there was no reason [illegible] in the house of representatives when it turns out that Mr. Roosevelt is undertaking to change the constitution as he understands it. So far as congress is concerned it may well wonder why it can delegate to an official the right to spend $3,000,000 as he pleases and it cannot delegate the spending to anybody appointed by an executive commission of seven, of whom members of congress happen to be in the majority.

As a matter of fact Mr. Roosevelt might even at this late day have raised the whole question of why members of congress should ever sit on executive commissions of any kind. For there is a clause in the Constitution which says:

No senator or representative shall during the time for which he was elected be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States which shall have been created ... during such time.

Literal obedience to this might have cut off members of congress from [illegible] travel junkets in the past and this probably would be going too far as a President in view of the approaching summer months.

Brighter Prospects

THERE [illegible] many high school and college [illegible] the last eight years [illegible] they were being congratulated. Why should they be happy at the prospect of pounding pavements [illegible] looking for jobs that weren't there and might not finding a job at all.

Many of them ended up doing work they didn't like for wages too low to sustain them. Some spent years loafing trying to keep themselves busy in idleness. It was not a pleasant situation and the world tried not to think about it any more than was necessary. The graduates were after all just one group in the country's vast unemployed population.

So it is heartening to be told that 1937 graduates of 70 universities and technical schools covered in a survey by Northwestern National Life Insurance Co. are in a favorable [illegible]. It seems there are not only more jobs to be filled but that beginning pay and prospects of advancement are greater.

More calls than we have men we can recommend to fill them is the way one university [illegible] the situation. Others report that certain students who will graduate this year can choose among three or more offers. Circumstances improved in 1936 [illegible] but were nothing like as favorable as they promise to be in 193[illegible]

Favorable Change

This is gratifying to everybody whose sympathy went out to eager graduates of the depression years who so often discovered they were licked before they started. It was especially cruel to have to admit to students that the American credo of "get an education to get a job" was applicable only in good times.

But it is not an entirely unworthy suspicion to [illegible] that the great majority of students graduating in 1937 still will have a tough fight on their hands. To be sure, there will be more jobs and they will pay more money. But the hopeful graduate who goes looking for them will discover that competition still is the way of life among employees.

That men [illegible] in many cases sending scouts to universities and technical schools to spot outstanding members of the graduating class. Any student who stands in the upper third of his class is likely to be looked [illegible] quietly by an employment [illegible]

Increasing activity of this kind is largely the basis for reassuring reports of brighter employment opportunities. The reports [illegible] more jobs are correct, but they do have the effect, unfortunately, of misleading some of the graduates who still are doomed to get their jobs the hard way and maybe not to get any job at all for a long time.

Looking For The Best

The distressing fact [illegible] that going [illegible] school is not a guarantee of a job. Even getting an education—and there's a difference—doesn't necessarily assure employment, though it is likely to [illegible] a time when the number of jobs is increasing [illegible] cleverly [illegible] to obtain the best beginners possible. The honor student even during the [illegible] years of the depression [illegible] had [illegible] the eye of some employer who wanted a bright young man [illegible] the business.

The [illegible] never has made a serious attempt to [illegible] the idea of [illegible] on ground [illegible] that [illegible] practical argument [illegible] thousands of graduates who have [illegible] might have been [illegible] of their grief if they had [illegible] the purpose of [illegible] live [illegible] higher [illegible] —the benefit depending on the [illegible] own [illegible] bi[illegible]

Our Ups and Downs

BY BEN WICKERSHAM
Associated Press Writer

HAMILTON, N. Y., May [illegible]—Want to know when you'll get the blues again—and when you'll bounce back to cheerfulness?

Dr. Donald A. Laird, Colgate university psychologist, can help you predict it with calendar-like regularity. Simply by working out your variation of his chart you can tell from one week to the next, he says, what mood you'll be in.

It's all in the emotional cycles which he insists we have at regular intervals—cycles when our spirits rise and fall, run the gamut from gloomy to peevish to disinterested to pleasant, cheerful or even elated moods. Each of these is indicated by a square on the chart.

Symptoms

Three of the psychologist's students tested his theory with a careful check of each other's moods. They found that the blues gave way with regularity to cheer, plus intermediate moods filling the gap over a four or five week period in the average person.

When you're down, the experiments showed, you eat less, sleep a little longer, hate to get up in the morning, feel as though your job was too much and generally are hard to get along with.

When you're up, you sleep [illegible] more, can tackle hard problems with high spirits and vigor and generally feel on top of the world.

It's [illegible] down [illegible] says Dr. Laird [illegible] persons who [illegible] but was [illegible] medical [illegible] because it makes them feel [illegible] because it carries them [illegible] days low until they get [illegible] the normal up [illegible] moods.

Cause and Cure

What causes the cycles?

It is a part of the ebb and flow of the [illegible] associated with the autonomic nervous system, the solar plexus, the ductless glands, says Dr. Laird—particularly four [illegible] pairs [illegible] on each side of your windpipe.

He finds [illegible] more marked among [illegible] than married folk, more marked among women than men.

Whose Bill Is It, Anyway?

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May [illegible]—The [illegible] seems to be positively [illegible] with the new agricultural program.

[illegible] Roosevelt says it is an administration legislation and he does not know whether he is for it. Agriculture Secretary Wallace [illegible] the other day that it was not his baby; in fact he did not like its tariff reduction proposal. House Farm Chairman Jones is being quoted as murmuring dismally that the hearing may last a long, long time because it is not an administration bill and must be looked into carefully. Farm politicos are telling newsmen to point out clearly in their stories that it is not an administration bill.

These four negatives may not make an affirmative but they certainly make a very interesting situation. The most noticeable result has been to make everyone in Congress and elsewhere a little sleepy. Some say it is just spring fever, but there is other evidence that it may be just plain old fashioned political fever.

In fact all observers able to keep their eyes open in the face of these soporific influences agree the bill contains everything the administration wants from the soil conservation benefit payments to Pharaoh Wallace's ever normal granary.

Papa

Parentage of the child is being claimed by capable Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation. As a proud father he will say the Agriculture Department knew nothing about it. If pressed, however, Mr. O'Neal will also add that of course his two legal drafters did not have all the necessary statistics and information at hand for their work. They naturally wanted the best done and wondered where they could get it. After deep thought they happened to think of—you guessed it—the Department of Agriculture.

Now Mr. Wallace is not the kind of man who would deny help to his best friend Mr. O'Neal, especially in distress. In his big hearted way he agreed not only to send Mr. O'Neal statistics and information but his own general legal counsel not to draft the bill—oh no—but merely to hand Mr. O'Neal a statistic now and then. Of course some inaccurate newsmen here will probably be so inaccurate as to speculate that Mr. O'Neal could get a better statistic from one of Mr. Wallace's statisticians than from his lawyer, but everyone knows how patient Mr. Wallace has always been with newspaper inaccuracies.

Purposes

There appear to be many reasons why this is not an administration bill, even though Mr. Wallace's lawyer helped to write it. In the first place the [illegible] administration sentiment sweeping congress will not be directed against the bill if the farmers espouse it as their own. Congressmen generally are ready to give the farmers what they want even when it happens to be what Mr. Wallace has been saying in speeches throughout the land that they should have.

Furthermore the bill is very drastic in scope, possibly leaning to the unconstitutional side of the AAA decision by the supreme court. For one thing it repeats the supreme court phrase about "the flow of commerce" in the Wagner decision so frequently as to indicate the author himself had his doubts. He might well have because the bill is obviously designed to control production strongly and effectively in spite of the AAA decision. It carries no state set up as the court suggested was necessary to constitutionalize production control.

As a matter of fact certain astounded committeemen were unable to ascertain for several days what the complicated omnibus really does contain and they are not sure yet.

Another similar inaccuracy which has been going around is that Mr. Roosevelt would send a power message to congress. The White House announced the other day that the President had no such idea in mind. It was said he intended to send a national resources conservation message to congress, another on hours and wages, etc. This was broadcast generally.

However, just as a tip, if you will look into the national resources conservation message you will find the lost power message. Aside from containing some minor points about soil conservation it was written to contain major points about a survey looking toward establishment of eight other TVA'S around the country.

In the end therefore it may develop that this inaccuracy is on the White House for calling a power message a national resource message.

Mr. Roosevelt's unofficial attorney general, Tom Corcoran, appeared behind the senate scenes the other day to take charge of compromise negotiations.

Inspiration from a Candle Flame

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, May 22—There is to me something purposeful and noble about a soft feathery candle flame skirling upward in the wavering dusk of a church, cathedral or even tea room. The most appealing popular song lyric of all time was:

Through the sycamore the candle lights are gleaming.

The nearest I ever came to religious ecstasy was in stopping before the cathedral at Rouen one midnight driving from Paris to Havre. Through a partly opened door a single candle flickered a pale yellow. Overhead the silver gray sky stillness and a scatter of stars.

With me was a one time actor calloused by the disillusionments of Broadway, who suddenly exclaimed: "All this makes me feel a bit floaty. There must be something to this church stuff after all." Nothing is more like life itself than a flaming candle.

Burning brightly at times and suggesting a plume of pomp. At other times sputtering darkly and filling the air with wafts of despair. Guttering sometimes into oblivion and at other times remembered as a promising beacon. Frequently lingering, frequently snuffed out.

When death comes to membership of the Lambs and the [illegible] has been heavy of late years, there is an especial bulletin board upon which the announcement is made. One of the legends of the club concerns Wilton Lackaye, who stopped before the latest posting one day and turning away sighed: "It's always the wrong one." Both the Lambs and Players are without caustic wit now that Lackaye, Oliver and Herford have gone over the horizon.

The measure of the true artist has always struck me as being summed up by the incomparable painter Corot. He played tag with success and sold his first painting at the age of 5[illegible]. Felicitated by a friend upon the long sought recognition, he murmured without enthusiasm: "It is indeed nice to sell something at last but my own collection is spoiled."

* * *

Authors frequently have some amusing and some time embarrassing experiences with autographed volumes. John Kendrick Bangs once sent a complimentary copy of his book "The Houseboat on the Styx" to a well known critic. On the fly leaf he inscribed: "To Brander Matthews with the kind regards of the author—John Kendrick Bangs." A week or so later he was browsing about the [illegible] book shop when he came upon the same volume lying on a marked-down table. Bangs, being the humorist he was, bought it and under what he had written previously added: "With renewed kind regards of the author—John Kendrick Bangs." And returned the volume to Matthews. Some one tell me that H. G. Wells will no longer autograph his book because he came upon several in second hand shops.

* * *

I once came upon a more or less [illegible] opus of mine called "White Light Nights" in a sprawl of two-for-a-quarter volumes on a second hand sidewalk counter in Boston. It had been autographed tenderly and with affectionate sentiment to a [illegible] and naturally I bought it and turned away bewildered and [illegible] Nor could I hide a certain coolness the next time I met [illegible] friend. But the mystery was cleared up [illegible] I mentioned in casual [illegible] hand [illegible] autographed books [illegible] the [illegible] more than [illegible] autographed books [illegible] second hand [illegible]

HORSE and COW SALE WEDNESDAY MAY 26 10 30 A M Bucyrus Livestock Commission Co On P[illegible] Road State Route 95 BUCYRUS OHIO

Our run for [illegible] weeks market was the highest since last fall Owing to the farmers right in the midst of corn planting and this market depending on a big per cent of cattle horses trucked in right off the farms

Prices were about the same would say all kinds were a little easier sold The quality ran extra good and feel safe in saying you can buy more quality and better broke horses here for the money than any other place From the number already reported we look for a much larger run for next week and if you can be here you will be able to find the horse you want if it is one or a carload We will appreciate a wire at our expense telling us when to expect you as we keep the shipper advised as to the kind to buy We thank you for your business and hope to have the pleasure of seeing you soon

Have the assurance of a lot of good dairy cows again for this sale Horse and Cow Sale each Wednesday Cattle Sheep and Hog Sale each Saturday Your presence will be appreciated
